strategic thinking for the future

Many people only consider making a will later in life, or they put it off because they think that it's an expensive luxury. Writing a will doesn't have to be costly and is essential if you want your loved ones to be protected should anything happen to you.

Trusts are equally important if you want to ensure that your financial responsibilities can be properly fulfilled during your lifetime and beyond.

As part of our will service we can offer you inheritance tax planning advice to help you leave your assets in a way that would be most beneficial to your family.

We can also help to prepare Lasting Powers of Attorney for clients.

This can be especially important should you become mentally or physically ill and unable to look after this yourself.

Our expert team can also assist you to put into place the following:

- Living wills
- Property co-ownership trusts
- Nursing/residential homes financial planning and management
- Court of Protection Matters
- Home visits

Whatever your needs, Hamers will work closely with you to make the most of your assets. Carefully and intelligently planning for the future will benefit your family and loved ones long after your death.
